

Looking Beyond the Eye - XII

Pathology to Practice

August 8-9, 2026

PROGRAM SCHEDULE

Day-1: Saturday, August 8, 2026

| Pre-conference Hands-on Session |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|---------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 9:00 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.          | <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Communication is Key: How to Submit the Tissue with Proper Requisition Form to Pathology</li><li>Surgery to Slides and Signing Out: What happens Behind the Scenes: Grossing &amp; Processing of Ocular Specimens</li><li>Provisional to Final Diagnosis: Pathologist Walk-through: Special Stains &amp; IHC</li><li>Shifting Gears: Diagnosis to Prognosis and Targeted Therapy: Role of Molecular Pathology</li><li>Planes matter: Treat the Tissues Well: Demonstration of Grossing: Dilip K M/Shanti</li></ul> |
| 12:30 - 1:30 p.m.               | Lunch Break                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Break-out Sessions-1            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 1:30 - 3:30 p.m.                | Cornea and Anterior Segment <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>The Shape-Shifting Invader: Unmasking Acanthamoeba Keratitis</li><li>Pythium Keratitis: The Fungal Impostor</li><li>Beyond the Cone: Histopathological Insights into Keratoconus</li><li>A Crescent of Thinning: Pathological Features of Pellucid Marginal Degeneration</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                                 | Vitreo-retina and Uveitis <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>A Sea Trapped Within: Uveal Effusion</li><li>Black but Benign at the Disc: Optic Disc Melanocytoma</li><li>One Story, Two Shores: Conjunctival + Choroidal Lymphoma</li><li>Scars of a Viral Storm: RRD in a case of Acute Retinal Necrosis</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|                                 | Eyelid and Orbit <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>The Hair-Raising Diagnosis- Trichofolliculoma</li><li>When the Orbit Speaks Systemic- A case of Sarcoidosis</li><li>When Leukemia Presents First in Orbit- A Case of Myeloid Sarcoma</li><li>The Great Masquerader- Sebaceous Gland Carcinoma</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|                                 | Pediatric Ophthalmology, Neuro-ophthalmology and Glaucoma <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>When the Orbit joins the Nerve Battle: Optic Neuritis, Orbital Apex and IgG4 Vs TB suspect</li><li>Genetic Blueprint for the Bulge behind the Bulge: Optic nerve glioma in NF1</li><li>The Dura on Fire: Hypertrophic Pachymeningitis</li><li>Granuloma in the Orbit: Infection or Inflammation</li></ul>                                                                                                                                         |
| 3:30 - 4:00 p.m.                | Tea Break                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Break-out Sessions-2            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4:00 - 6:00 p.m.                | Cornea and Anterior Segment <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>When a Dermoid Tells a Bigger Story: Goldenhar, SCALP, and Tessier associations</li><li>Decoding Peters Plus Syndrome Through Histopathology</li><li>Cloudy Corneas and Silent Ears: Histopathology of Harboyan Syndrome</li><li>The Map, the Dot, and the Fingerprint</li><li>What Lies Beneath the Haze</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                             |
|                                 | Vitreo-retina and Uveitis <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>The Forgotten Bacillus Returns: When Leprosy Hits the Eye</li><li>The Doppelgänger in the Choroid: Lymphoma vs Schwannoma</li><li>When the Iris Tells a Secret: Iris Metastasis</li><li>The Wolf in Steroid's Clothing: Primary Vitreo-retinal Lymphoma</li><li>The Snake and the Shadow: Serpiginous-like Choroiditis</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                  |
|                                 | Eyelid and Orbit <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>A White Patch with a Dark Side: Ocular Surface Squamous Neoplasia (OSSN)</li><li>Cancer or Copycat?: Pseudoepitheliomatous Hyperplasia (PEH)</li><li>The Melanoma Without Melanin: Amelanotic Melanoma</li><li>When Smooth Muscle Turns Rogue: Conjunctival Leiomyosarcoma</li><li>The Orbit as a Messenger: Orbital Metastasis from Breast Carcinoma</li></ul>                                                                                                                            |
|                                 | Pediatric Ophthalmology, Neuro-ophthalmology and Glaucoma <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>When Antibodies Collide: A diagnostic challenge: IgG4 disease Vs MOG</li><li>The Orbital Masquerade: The Histopathology Plot Twist: NSOID- Fibroblastic Neoplasm</li><li>When ANCA reaches the eyes: Wegener's Granulomatosis</li><li>When Muscles Slow Down: Let us solve Mitochondrial Puzzle with Extraocular Muscles</li><li>Short Stature, Optic Atrophy and Genetics- Let's Smear the Blood</li></ul>                                       |

Looking Beyond the Eye - XII

Pathology to Practice

August 8-9, 2026

PROGRAM SCHEDULE

Day-2: Sunday, August 9, 2026

| Break-out Sessions 3 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|----------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 08:00 - 10:00 a.m.   | Cornea and Anterior Segment <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Castleman Disease</li><li>• Pathophysiology of Scleritis</li><li>• Lighting up the Basement Membrane: Immunofluorescence in Ocular Cicatricial Pemphigoid</li><li>• The Conjunctiva Turned to Wood: Histopathology of Ligneous Conjunctivitis</li><li>• Beyond the Lattice: Histopathologic Clues to Meretoja Syndrome</li></ul>                                                   |
|                      | Vitreo-retina and Uveitis <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• The Choroid as Sentinel: Choroidal Metastasis</li><li>• The Immune Blind Spot: CMV retinitis</li><li>• Pulseless, but Eye Speaks: Retinopathy in Takayasu disease</li><li>• Inflammation Meets Thrombosis: Secondary APLA</li><li>• Amalric's Signature: Ophthalmic Artery Occlusion</li></ul>                                                                                       |
|                      | Eyelid and Orbit <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Not Every Orbital Mass Is a Tumor: Orbital Fungal Granuloma</li><li>• Retinoblastoma After Childhood: Adult Retinoblastoma</li><li>• The Tumor from Embryonic Time: Medulloepithelioma</li><li>• Beyond the Retina: Retinoblastoma with Extensive High-Risk Features</li><li>• The Pigmented Pretender: Retinal Pigment Epithelium (RPE) Adenoma</li></ul>                                    |
|                      | Pediatric Ophthalmology, Neuro- ophthalmology and Glaucoma <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Weak Muscles, Strong Clues: Congenital Myopathies</li><li>• A Tumor behind 5,6,7,8 Collusion: CP angle Tumor</li><li>• When Cancer Returns Through the Clivus: 6th Nerve Palsy- Clivus lesion- s/p Nasopharyngeal Ca</li><li>• The Orbit's Triple Masquerade: NSOID, IgG4, or Metastasis</li><li>• The Sellar Surprise: Pituitary Adenoma</li></ul> |
| 10:00 - 10:30 a.m.   | Tea Break                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 10:30 - 12:30 p.m.   | Live Tumor Board Meeting                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 12:30 - 1:30 p.m.    | Lunch Break                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |